WAGNER LABOR BILL SIGNED

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

RADICAL political elements meeting at Chicago Friday announced to the nation that they will put a third party in the field in 1936 dedicated to "a new social order." An honest observer will dismiss their prophecy with the remark that Democrat Roosevelt has already outlined enough social changes to strain the national pocketbook—proposing, in fact, far more than will be enacted into law for many years.

Memphis Bitter Over Dog-Racing Plant in Arkansas

West Memphis (Ark.) Taking $25,000 Weekly Out of Tennessee City

CAPITAL CITY FIGHT

Promoter to Push Little Rock Plant Despite City's Attitude

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Business men of Memphis can see no good in dog racing held at nearby West Memphis, Arkansas.

Its opponents range from department store heads, theater operators and hotel night club managers to taxi drivers, gamblers and bootleggers. Joe L. Kennedy, head of the Memphis Clearing House, estimated Thursday night that the races take between $25,000 and $30,000 a week out of Memphis. He says that "practically none of this money is returned here."

"Dog racing at West Memphis undoubtedly is one of the most harmful things that Memphis ever had to contend with," said Mr. Kennedy. "Anything that takes more than $25,000 a week out of the city without giving anything back undoubtedly is a powerful deterrent to the advancement of business here. The definite harmful effects of the races have not made themselves apparent to the man on the street, but the day is not far distant when they will feel the pinch of all this money being taken out."

The president of one of the city's largest department stores who would not allow the use of his name, was bitter about racing.

"We can see a definite effect on our business already," he said. "It takes money from the regular channels of business and away from the city where it was earned. It is a thing that takes but does not give."

M. A. Lightman, operator of 10 theaters here, including three uptown houses, said that the races are ruining the night show business.

"We have experienced five of the worst weeks of night show business that I have ever seen in Memphis, since the races started," he said. "I can't say too much against these races. There is nothing stable about them. They are no better than an ordinary honkey tonk and they take worlds more money out of circulation in Memphis."

"I did not fight the opening of the track because I didn't want to seem to be a dog in a manger. But since I have seen how they operate and the effect on Memphis business, I regret that I did not fight it."

Contract Is Claimed
LITTLE ROCK—Herman Heiden, president and majority stockholder of Millwood Amusement Corporation said Thursday that he held a contract signed by five members of the Arkansas Racing Commission and that he had been assured by lawyers that it was equivalent to an actual permit for operating a dog racing plant in Pulaski county.

Mr. Heiden said he would be represented by a lawyer at the open hearing which will be conducted Monday

Four Arrests for Drunkenness—One Motor Accident Reported

RODEO BIG SUCCESS MAY LOSE LICENSE

Total of 195 Fatalities Compares With 177 for Holiday Year Ago

Participating in a wide variety of holiday events, Hope and Hempstead county citizens spent a comparatively "safe and sane" Fourth of July.

Only one accident, an automobile mishap near the Pines swimming pool in which a negro was injured, marred the day for merry makers here.

Police answered only four calls from Wednesday afternoon to Friday morning in which three Mineral Springs residents and a Washington man were locked up.

Jeff Cooper, negro, was injured in the accident near Pines Swimming pool. He was taken to Julia Chester hospital with deep lacerations about the head and face. Three other negroes riding in the car with Cooper were bruised and skinned about the body.

Only the Cooper negro, employee of Hope Brick Works, required hospital attention. He was released Friday morning. The accident occurred about 9 p. m. Thursday when their automobile went into a ditch and overturned. Hope Furniture company ambulance brought the negroes to Hope.

No other accidents of any nature were reported from either of the Hope hospitals.

5,000 Attend Rodeo

Featuring the holiday in Hope was the second annual wild west rodeo, sponsored by Hope Fire Department.

A spokesman for the department said Friday that over 5,000 persons attended the two performances, given Wednesday night and Thursday afternoon at Hope High School stadium.

The rodeo was a big success from every standpoint. Camden sent its boys band and a large crowd of cowpunks to Hope for the program. The rodeo attracted others from various parts of southern and western Arkansas.

The holiday program also included a variety of privately sponsored picnics, outings, swimming parties and fishing trips in and near Hope.

A negro baseball game between Hope and Camden was an attraction Thursday afternoon.

Climaxing holiday events in Hope were two dances, one at Yerger High School auditorium in which Duke Ellington and his famed orchestra furnished music.

A big crowd attended, including many white persons who witnessed the dance and listened to the Ellington orchestra from a reserved section of the auditorium.

The other dance for negroes was on Indian Hill, on the north side of the city.

By the Associated Press
The nation counted at least 195 dead Friday with 1,000 more injured as the cost of celebrating its 159th birthday.

The total of accident fatalities compared with 177 last year.

The Middle West, with 79 holiday deaths, was far ahead of other sections of the country.

The Mountain States reported only 9 deaths. The South had 28; the Southwest 20; the Pacific Coast 14; and New England 10.

Only two deaths were directly attributed to fireworks.

Anderson Assumes Rotary Presidency

Brewster Reports 3 Members Made Perfect Attendance Record

Roy Anderson assumed the presidency of Hope Rotary Friday noon at Hotel Barlow, marking the beginning of a new club year.

Thanks were extended the membership by Past President Albert Graves for a successful Rotary year, followed by an analysis of club membership the last 12 months by Rev. Thomas Brewster, club secretary.

He reported that Terrell Cornelius, Albert Patten and L. Carter Johnson completed perfect attendance records; while J. P. Duffie missed but once out of 52 Fridays.

Of the club membership of 29, there were 29 who held membership one year or more; 7 who joined within the last 12 months; and 2 old members who had been granted leave of absence, but have since returned home.

Leon Carrington became the new club treasurer, succeeding Jake Sale. George W. Ware, assistant director in charge of the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station, called attention of Rotarians to the station's annual Visiting day program next Friday, July 12.

7 Arrested Here for Violation of State Liquor Law

Whisky Found in Beer Parlor Operated by Martin Pool

RODEO BIG SUCCESS MAY LOSE LICENSE

3 Negroes Charged With Selling Liquor After Legal Hours

Sheriff Jim Bearden announced Friday the arrest of seven persons, five of whom are charged with violation of tax-paid liquor laws.

The other two, under arrest are charged with possessing "moonshine" for sale.

Martin Pool, operator of a former licensed whisky store and a beer establishment on Front street, was facing charges of possessing and storing whisky for purpose of sale in the beer parlor.

Clyde Holloman, employee of Pool, facing charges of selling whisky in the beer parlor.

The sheriff also announced the seizure of two and a half pints of whisky, found behind the beer bar, and the discovery of about 100 empty pint and half-pint bottles stored behind the beer parlor, which the sheriff said had been used for liquor.

May Revoke License
Sheriff Bearden said he would ask that the beer license issued to Pool be revoked immediately. Bearden also stated that he had protested against the issuance of a liquor license to Pool on the basis that Pool was operating a beer parlor and liquor store in one building.

The sheriff also said that as far as he knew no liquor license for the remaining half of 1935 had been issued to Pool.

Discovery of licensed whisky in the beer parlor was made late Thursday afternoon by Bearden and State Revenue Agent Frank Witte, district agent for nine southwest Arkansas counties.

"Commission Men"
Three negroes arrested for selling tax-paid liquor without license were announced by the sheriff as: Dolph Reed, Johnny Jones and Willie Smith. Sheriff Bearden said that he had information that they were bootleggers for certain licensed liquor stores in Hope, selling liquor after closing hours, Sunday's and national holidays.

The sheriff said he had information that representatives of these stores worked on commission basis, profiting 25 cents per pint to the bootlegger.

Mammie Anthony, negro woman, and Treg Simms, negro, are held for possession of "moonshine" liquor for sale.

Slays Girl and Flees With Body

Union County Man Kills Woman and Escort Near El Dorado

EL DORADO, Ark.—(AP)—Captured by deputy sheriffs as he fled southward into Louisiana, the dead body of a young woman on the automobile seat beside him, Clyde Gully, 28, Farmerville (La.) married man, was returned to the Union county jail here Thursday night.

Charges of murder will be filed against him for the slaying at a roadside sandwich stand near here this afternoon of the woman, Miss Christie Moore, 22, of Huttig, and her companion, R. A. (Pap) Harper, 22, of Strong.

The double killing was witnessed by several persons who had stopped at the roadside resort, Deputy Sheriff Elmer Nelson said.

Gully refused to discuss the killings, but Deputy Nelson said an affair with the Moore girl, which resulted in the serious wounding of another man by Gully last Christmas Eve, was blamed.

Gully now is under indictment in Union county on a charge of assault with intent to kill John Pennington of Strong, a relative of Miss Moore. Deputy Nelson said Pennington followed the Moore girl into the woods where she kept a tryst with Gully, last Christmas Eve and that Gully shot Pennington through the head.

Pennington has not been able to appear in court to testify against Gully, who was released on bond.

Gully has a wife and two small sons living at Farmerville, Nelson said.

Net for Fugitives Spread at Conway

Pair of Armed Trusty Guards Reported Crossing Arkansas River

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—A search for two escaped Arkansas trusty convicts was Friday, with reports that two armed men believed to be the fugitives had crossed the Arkansas river six miles west of that town.

State and county officials converged on that area in a renewed effort to halt the flight of the two convicts.

Deputy Sheriff L. R. Summers, of Conway, said the two men were armed with rifles and pistols and they asked the direction to highway No. 64 after notifying persons at Cedar Park that they had left an injured man in their automobile across the river.

The two convicts at large are: Lee Sifton, 36, convicted slayer serving a 15-year term from Searcy county.

Zach McHenry, 25, service 10 years for robbery from Faulkner county.

They escaped Thursday night after being sent from Tucker Prison Farm in search of another prisoner, Jake Young, 31, who had escaped.

Seized by Rangers in Texarkana Raid

Joe Duke, 26, Admits Participating in England Robbery Plot

LITTLE ROCK—State Rangers captured Joe Duke, 26, at Texarkana, Thursday, brought him to Little Rock and placed him in the Pulaski county jail as a participant, with E. D. Woodruff, paroled convict, at the attempt to break into a store at England, Lonoke county, Sunday night.

He first denied being involved, but later, officers said, he admitted that he and Woodruff stole a car at Paris, Texas, and drove it to England. It was seized there Sunday night when a resident discovered it was loaded with guns, ammunition and nitroglycerine. A hunt for the men, seen momentarily on top of the business building they were attempting to burglarize, began immediately, but they eluded officers at England.

After Woodruff was caught Monday when he and a companion were accosted as they were walking on the Baucum highway, southeast of North Little Rock, he told officers Duke had been with him, and a search for the latter began.

The convict pair was presumed to be looking for was Jake Young, 31, sentenced in Sebastian county last

Majority's Right to Organize for Bargaining Upheld

Roosevelt Signs Measure Setting Up National Labor Board

PLAN BROADER TAX

'Wealth-Sharing' May Be Extended to American Middle Class

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Wagner Labor Disputes bill, guaranteeing labor the right to bargain collectively, was signed Friday by President Roosevelt.

The bill, designed to supersede the now dead Section 7-A of the National Recovery Act (NRA), would set up a new National Labor Relations board of three members, yet to be appointed.

It gives any organization chosen by the majority of employees in a plant the right to speak for all employees, and forbids employers from interfering with the self-organization of employees.

May Broaden "Wealth Tax"
WASHINGTON—(AP)—New Deal circles Friday are studying the advisability of broadening the tax-wealth program to reach into middle income brackets as well as the million-annually class.

'May Delay AAA Bill'
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Some farm administration men expressed concern Friday last, one new change in the pending AAA amendment might result in delay for that legislation.

This possible barrier, officials said, is the action of the senate agriculture committee in deleting a provision authorizing an appropriation for the AAA of 30 percent of American cotton receipts.

Higher Corn Price Due in Mid-West

Planting of Late Corn Strongly Urged Upon Southern Farmers

Extremely wet weather this spring and the late overflows of bottom lands in sections of the county have created a situation which might lead to a serious feed shortage next fall, states Frank R. Stanley, Hempstead county agent.

The corn belt of the United States has likewise suffered abnormally wet weather, which doubtless will cause higher corn prices. With reduced income means not having to buy high priced feed next fall, thus protecting reduced incomes as the result of water-damaged crops.

Experiments conducted with July planted corn in Lee, Pulaski, and Washington counties by the College of Agriculture of the University of Cotton.

Markets

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Lower prices prevailed as trading was resumed on the cotton market here Friday. Active positions were 17 to 20 points lower at the first call as domestic markets got in line with the levels of Liverpool.

While American markets were closed for the Independence Day holiday Liverpool sold off and Friday's lower opening was largely the reflection of this. A four cent break in wheat at Chicago Friday also worked for bearish interests.

July was an even dollar at a level lower than at 11.87, while October at 11.51, December at 11.55 and March at 11.58, lost nearly this amount.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened easy, 14 to 26 lower in response to lower Liverpool cables and on favorable weather over the holiday, July 11.99, October 11.62, December 11.59, January 11.55, March 11.59, May 11.62.

Trading was active at the start with liquidation and foreign selling promoted by easy Liverpool cables. Pre-holiday advances also appeared to have developed some reactionary tendency above the 12-cent level for July but offerings were absorbed by brokers previously credited with operating either for pool or co-operative account. After selling off to 11.60, October rallied to 11.68 with active months generally showing recoveries of five or six points from the lowest.

When High Heels Drop Back Will Suffer

Women who wear high heels, then hike over a golf course with low-heeled shoes; athletes who suddenly let down on their activity; persons who sleep in awkward positions—these are the most frequent sufferers from backache.

When you are in the habit of wearing high-heeled shoes, it is a sudden tax on your spine to switch to low heels.

Many women with high heels find it necessary to hold their backs in a bent position to maintain a suitable balance. Let them adopt low-heeled shoes, as when they take up some sort of sport like golf, and there's pain in the back, due to a change from the unnatural position of the spine caused by the high heels.

Furthermore, any painful position of the feet may cause one to walk in an awkward manner, bringing a new type of strain in some part of the body, and chronic backache as a result.

In the case of athletes, there is a general relaxation of the body when the sedentary life is taken up. In such instances, the whole muscular system droops, the muscles lose their tone, and the ability to hold the bones of the body in the right position, and here again, backache comes, fast and sure.

The reason why many persons awake with a backache is that one of the joints in the spine becomes locked, most likely from lying in an awkward position. The common variety of stiff neck is due to this.

Besides these factors, perhaps the most frequent cause of pain in the back is an inflammation of one of the many joints in the spinal column. For a suitable examination, X-ray pictures should be taken, and a general study of the afflicted person's physical condition should be made.

Once the cause of a chronic pain in the back has been determined, relief can be had in one of many ways. In some cases proper application of adhesive tape will hold the joints in a fixed position and prevent pulling or pressure on the sensitive areas.

When there has been an injury to the back, it is important to provide suitable rest for the injured area. This can be effected by strapping up the body, or by wearing suitable braces or supports.

Such apparatus has been designed in many forms, particularly for the lower part of the body, since low back pain is among the most frequent of backache.

A BOOK A DAY

Two Bulky Volumes for the Book Lover

If you like to bite off your literature in big chunks, to be carried to the arm chair and worried down at your leisure, you will be interested in two new "omnibus" volumes just printed.

One of them is "An Anthology of World Prose," edited by Carl van Doren, and containing some thousand pages of excellent reading matter.

Mr. van Doren has gone to all great world literatures and has dug up, in addition to excerpts from the familiar classics, pages from writers of whom you most assuredly never heard before.

His book contains almost everything—prose from Persia and India, from China and Japan, from Sweden and Russia, from France and Germany, from America and England—and it makes an excellent volume to keep on the fireside table and browse through from time to time.

Incidentally, it is so amazingly bulky that you'll be dipping into it for years without exhausting it.

The other book is entitled simply "Nine Plays," and it is by George Bernard Shaw. Here are collected the plays that have made Mr. Shaw famous—Caesar and Cleopatra, Mrs. Warren's Profession, Arms and the Man, Candido, Saint Joan, Man and Superman, The Devil's Disciple, and Androcles and the Lion—and you don't need to be told that the volume is well worth owning.

It contains, also, discursive prefaces in which Mr. Shaw speaks his mind about such things as he has not mentioned in his plays; and, all in all, it is as fine a book bargain as you will encounter in a long time.

The Van Doren anthology is a Blue Ribbon book, and the Shaw plays are published by Dodd, Mead and Co. Both books sell for $3.50.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Comparisons Are Unfair to Child

I did something today I regret terribly. To eyes can be such traitors, and we do things before we know it. A glance can wound, and I know mine did.

Two small girls came into the hotel dining room with their mother. I had seen them before and stopped to talk to them. Both were friendly, but the dark one had star points in her eyes and was altogether charming.

In their little plaid dresses and great red hats at luncheon they were picture perfect, the one pale and plump, the other fair and rounded. Both pretty, but the little blonde had a way of catching the eye first. I don't know why, but one senses instantly, when one understands children, that the oldest one was supposed to be the beauty of the family, the one with the sunny hair.

I looked over and grinned. Little blonde, facing me, smiled back, a lovely look on her face that said as plainly as if she had spoken, "We're friends, aren't we?"

Glence That Hurt
Then I behaved badly. Quite involuntarily my eyes turned to the other. She was busy fixing her hat. Back to the other, then, like a flash, but it was too late. She had turned, sideways, and looked pensively at the floor. It is hard to describe this small drama that only took a few seconds. Some faces, especially those of children, write a whole story in an instant.

The story is that these two sisters, so nearly of an age, have probably been, compared all their lives. The dark one, with her spiritual beauty, has become accustomed to people turning from her to her sister. I had done it, too. It was not for the reason she thought, but there it was. She is far the prettier to me, but all her life she will have an inferiority about her looks—if I know my signs.

I hope her mother tells her how lovely she is, and that she has something beside beauty, too—charm and personality. If I see her again, and I hope I will, I shall make up for my error.

Comparisons Are Unfair
Nothing is so hurtful to my child, boy or girl, as to live day by day in a losing game with a smarter or handsomer sister or brother. Comparisons are odious, but in such a case, particularly so. To say, "Jim gets such good marks, Billy," or "Mary, it's so much harder to make you look nice than Jane" is defeat pure and simple.

You may say that we live in a world where people are continually outshining us and we have to accept it. Yes, that's true, but it never cuts so deeply as it does in a family. Children once convinced they are second-raters, stay convinced. There are many who never headed the class or who never won a game just because they thought they couldn't.

Let a mother's eyes not shine too brightly on the family star, or too dully on the family failure. The reason may bring forth surprising Cinderellas or beautifully-matured ducklings. Who can tell? Or a genius like Hans Andersen, who was the dullest until he was grown.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Half Hats Put Premium on Clever Address

New hats, inspired by the Italian Art Exhibit in Paris, call for curled and swirled coiffures that are a bit more pretentious than probably, you'd planned to wear this summer. If you go to tea, as many of the smartest women do, in a half-hat that doesn't cover more than a few square inches of your head, to dinner in an equally revealing turban, you simply must wear a rather formal hair style instead of the simple coiffure that looks so well in sports. Frankly, the comparative new idea of coiffures to go with hats is rapidly becoming a hard and fast rule. These days, a smart woman goes directly from her hat shop to her hairdresser, so he may design a coiffure that flatters with the new hat as well. If the bonnet is off-the-face, it's more than likely the expert will arrange a style that emphasizes her widow's peak. If she has nice ears, perhaps he will place rows of ringlets upward and forward. If not, he may make swirls and a curl or two to cover the ears and form a suave, unbroken line with the hat.

Social Planning vs. Rugged Individualism Again

If you buy a cocky little bonnet that looks like a beffuffed pancake and is no bigger than that, remember that the back of your hair should be done up as carefully and beautifully as the front. Perhaps a group of curls across the back will be attractive.

Get Practical Style
Or, if your head is nicely shaped, a smooth line, made by combing the hair from side to side instead of from top to nape of the neck, will be better. In any event, insist that the special coiffure is a practical creation that will stay in place until the tea party is over. To start out with one that will come apart in spots or look bedraggled before you get home is a waste of time and money, indeed. Don't be afraid to use plenty of invisible hairpins and remember to put on a hair net before you slip a shower cap over your curls.

Remember, also, that any hairdresser is able to do much lovelier things with hair that is healthy. If you have excessive oil, dandruff or some other scalp disorder, you can't expect the curls to stay in place for as long a time. The swirled spots won't look shiny and glossy if your hair is dull and lifeless. A few flakes of dandruff can spoil the appearance of the most carefully-planned coiffure.

For these reasons, you ought to make a thorough survey of your scalp and hair, decide exactly what is wrong and then go about the tedious but paying-in-the-end business of reconditioning.

Dandruff Treatment
There are tonics for oiliness and dryness, of course, and several routines to cure dandruff. One especially good dandruff-elimination treatment makes use of balsam oil. Here are the steps to follow:

First of all, brush every inch of your scalp and each strand of hair. If there are a few spots, coated heavily with the disagreeable flakes, loosen them with a comb and then brush out. This brushing is extremely important. Don't stop until you have removed all the loose dandruff. Then, using a bland, liquid shampoo and warm water, give your hair one washing in the usual manner. Rinse carefully and apply the balsam oil. You can buy it in any drug or department store.

Massage the oil into scalp and, with your finger-tips, rub it all through your hair. It will seem rather sticky, but don't worry about that. When you have finished, stop under the shower or use a hand spray attachment to rinse out the oil. A spray is necessary and the rinsing water must be fairly hot. Dry in the sunshine if possible.

One Was a Millionaire One Was a Movie Hero---

And both men were in love with pretty Jo Darien who, a few weeks before, had been worried about money, glad to get a $10-a-week job.

Whirled into the gay life of a fashionable summer resort, Jo, 20 years old, unsophisticated, finds admiration and romance and, keeping pace with them, envy, intrigue . . . danger.

"Sun-Tan," the new serial by Nard Jones, tells how Jo made her choice, fought for the man she loved, and won.

A Perfect Day

When you come to the end of a perfect day,
And you sit alone with your thought,
While the chimes ring out with a carol gay,
For the joy that the day has brought,
Do you think what the end of a perfect day
Can mean to a tired heart,
When the sun goes down with a flaming ray
And the dear friends have to part.
Well this is the end of a perfect day,
Near the end of a journey too,
But it leaves a thought that is big and strong,
With a wish that is kind and true,
For memory has painted this perfect day
With colors that never fade,
And we find at the end of a perfect day
The soul of a friend we've made.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Texas: Exodus 24:3-8, 12-8.
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 7.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

The lessons of the new quarter deal with representative men and women of the Bible. The Bible characters chosen are selected not only for their personal interest and greatness but for what they have represented in their careers and in the history of religion.

Moses, the first of these, is selected as the type of the leader and lawgiver. In Moses these two characters were united. He became the lawgiver in the task of leading his people and developing for them the rules and restraints necessary for the welding of individuals into a well-ordered society.

The topics associated with this lesson for intermediate and senior groups and for young people and adults are significant. For the former group the theme is "What It Means to Be a Patriot," and for the latter group "Religion in National Life."

There could be no truer and better example of the patriot than Moses, a man devoted first of all to righteousness and high ideals whose primary obligation was to God and not to his people, but who loved his people and led them because his obligation to God had taught him the definiteness and fullness of human duty. For him devotion to his people was the very essence of faith and action.

Brought by early circumstance into the palace of the Pharaohs, he had refused, when he came to manhood, to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, but had chosen rather to suffer the affliction of his people.

Like all truly great leaders he had felt the inadequacy of his own strength and ability. He had shrunk from the task before him and had accepted it only with the clear assurance that it was his God-given mission.

The task was made all the harder by the attitude of the people themselves. It is a strange fact in history that so often those who have most needed leadership have been unwilling to be led. They have had more regard for the fleshpots of Egypt than for the allurements of freedom, or their spirit has been so broken by bondage and distress that they have lost either the capacity or the urge to find some better situation.

The inspiration to Moses in his mood of reluctance came through a vision of God and a revelation of his will. Again, as he faces the crucial task of organizing and building into an ordered society the people whom he has led out of their bondage, inspiration comes to him upon the mountain top.

One may read the story in all its heretofore detail, or one may read it in the light of a more critical eye distinguishing between the essential truth and the form.

The essential truth is that Moses gave to the people through this experience of inspiration 10 commandments which, as we analyze them, were directed toward establishing in all human relations the principles of fairness, consideration, and justice, without which no society can have strength or stability.

We read these commandments today in the light of Christ's larger commandment of love, but the commandments of Moses are not abrogated. What the commandment of Jesus does is to fill up in the freedom of the life of the spirit all that Moses established in formal codes and rules. Moses is for our age, as for his own, the great type of leader and lawgiver.

State Labor Endorsement
Editor The Star: I note in your paper of June 22nd an article under the heading "Compensation Act Principle Flayed by Hope Attorney."

"W. S. Atkins attacks history of forced industrial settlements. 'Unjust to Labor' So Attorney contends in speech before Hope Kiwanis club."

May I have space in your valuable paper to make some correction in the statements made by the honorable attorney. I am sure he did not intentionally make a wrong impression relative to workmen's compensation, as I have found him to be a very high class gentleman and deeply interested in the interest of the citizenship of the state.

He stated that "over half of the states now have workmen's compensation" while the fact is that 44 of the 48 states have workmen's compensation and the government of the United States has three.

I note he stated that "it is against sound public policy to enact any law of compensation in any field of endeavor that makes no distinction between the careless and the careful. Offers no reward for cautious conduct and puts no penalty upon negligence."

He no doubt has not been reliably informed as to the operation of workmen's compensation acts. Reports show that all states that are operating under either a commission or the Department of Labor, have reduced accidents and increased efficiency. The greater portion of the industrial accidents caused by speed-up methods and unprotected workmen. Remove the hazard and the workmen are more content and capable workers.

In his contention for a sound public policy I wonder if he has given consideration to the fact that liability insurance rates in Arkansas have become prohibitive, greatly increasing the cost of public, as well as private construction, and that in several counties in the state liability insurance cannot be secured.

It is against sound public policy to penalize all workmen in the state except those employed by a corporation from having any protection in case of industrial accidents or death?

Is it against sound public policy to penalize industry and keep capital out of the state because a few attorneys have made a good living at the expense of both employer and employee in accident litigation?

If it is against sound public policy to advocate and work for workmen's compensation then I am forced to plead guilty to being classed in that position, as I have been charged by a delegated convention of organized labor to work consistently for the enactment of workmen's compensation in Arkansas to secure protection for the thousands of workers that do not have any protection, and when injured or killed in industry they or their dependents become objects of charity and social outcasts.

In my campaign in behalf of Workmen's compensation I have consulted and worked with all groups of people and I have found the principle of workmen's compensation approved by an overwhelming majority of employers, doctors, social security workers, insurance companies, contractors and civic and fraternal organizations that have a sense of justice for the underprivileged. I have consulted the legal department of the American Federation of Labor, the National Committee on Labor Legislation, and the committee appointed by the president of the United States on social and economic security, and in all instances the principle of workmen's compensation has been approved and I have been urged to carry on until Arkansas was gotten out of the small minority that had so far failed to give protection to its unprotected workers. If all this class of outstanding citizens, both state and national, believe in the principle of workmen's compensation I feel that I created no serious error in advocating a law that has been conceded to be fair, by practically every class of citizenship, with but one exception.

A workmen's compensation bill was introduced in the last session of the Arkansas Legislature by the Arkansas State Federation of Labor and passed the house, but failed to secure any consideration in the senate due to certain parliamentary procedure.

It may be necessary to go to the citizens in order to secure this needed protection for the workers. We had hoped otherwise, but if a small minority is able to block humane protection, then it will become necessary for the workers to take the problems to the public for a fair consideration of their safety and protection.

Capital Also Endorses

Editor The Star: May we express our appreciation for your editorial on Workmen's Compensation legislation prompted by the remarks of W. S. Atkins before the Kiwanis club? I read your news story on the subject and, like you, could pick his assertions to pieces.

Forty-five states now have compensation legislation, Florida having enacted such a law last month. It becomes effective July 1.

Such legislation in Arkansas is more for the benefit of the worker than the employer. Under a compensation law, for example, a worker might receive $100 for loss of time, medical attention, etc., necessitated by a slight injury, without even having to ask for it. Under the present system some damage suit lawyer gets hold of him and brings suit for $10,000 or so out of which the attorney gets at least half of the gross award, the worker paying all expenses for his half. In the end he comes out with thirty or forty cents, net and, of course, branded as an undesirable employee because he had gone to court. From then on it is difficult for him to get a job because employers are afraid to have him on their payrolls, he might sue again on the slightest provocation.

Organized labor in Arkansas and the employers are in agreement upon a workmen's compensation bill—it was written jointly by them during the closing days of the recent Assembly—and they are hopeful that Governor Futrell, if he calls a special session this year, will recommend enactment of such legislation that it may be considered as quickly as possible.

Sincerely,
DUDLEY V. HADDOCK,

Commissary Man in Alaska "Fired"

Government's Action Helps to Conciliate Angry Settlers

PALMER, Alaska.—(AP)—A federal investigator, apparently siding with complaining Matanuska valley colonists on some points, discharged the commissary manager Monday and commented angrily on the way houses are being built—some without foundations.

The Relief Administration's "trouble shooter," Eugene Carr, issued written orders for Commissary Manager Warters to leave the colony within 24 hours. He also halted construction of houses.

Carr declined to make public the accusations against Warters, but colonists had alleged they were overcharged at the commissary for food and other articles. Warters disposed of his household goods and prepared to leave. Carr said his dismissal had a quieting effect on the settlers.

Carr began his investigation last week after complaints from some of the colonists resulted in a United States Senate resolution asking a report on conditions.

He has conferred with officials, including Project Manager Don Irwin, whose authority Carr has assumed for the time, but refused to discuss his conclusions.

Some colonists had complained their homes were not being put up rapidly enough for occupancy before winter, that their food was poor and that commissary prices were exorbitant.

NOTICE
If you are one of the many who receive and ignore my statements month after month, won't you PLEASE do your part to relieve a very distressing condition—an acute shortage of funds? Payment of your account would help a lot.

Thank you,
L. M. LILE, M. D.

Slayer Tells of Framing Attorney

Hired Girls to Get Him Drunk—When That Failed, Shot Him

DETROIT, Mich.—Dapper William L. Ferris, 26, confessed late Monday that he shot and killed Howard Carter Dickinson last Thursday night because the New York lawyer resisted attempts to hold him up.

Though Ferris, also known as William Schweitzer, had made other contradictory "confessions," police believe his latest account is the true one concerning the killing of Dickinson, who was a nephew of Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes.

Ferris' confession came soon after Jean Miller, one of three girls arrested with him Saturday at Fort Wayne, Ind., admitted to Prosecuting Attorney Duncan C. McCrea that she and Yvonne and Florence Jackson were in the "business of getting men drunk and rolling them."

Prosecutor McCrea quoted Ferris as saying that he only got about $150 from the pockets of the attorney. He had expected to get much more because Dickinson "looked like big dough to us."

"We thought he had a lot of money so we agreed to get him drunk and roll him," the prosecutor said Ferris told him.

"But he wouldn't get drunk, so we took him to Rouge park. The girls got out of the car and I told him to put 'em up."

"He wouldn't put his hands up so I left him there in the side. Then I removed his coat and vest and pulled him from the car. Dickinson said: 'You kids are making a mistake.'"

Her: "I think dancing makes a girl's feet too big, don't you?"

Her: "I think swimming gives a girl awfully large shoulders, don't you?"

Him: (Pause) "You must ride quite a lot, too."

S. R. Morgan and Lawyer in Fight

El Dorado Utility Promoter and D. D. Panich Exchange Blows

EL DORADO, Ark.—A brief physical encounter between S. R. Morgan and D. D. Panich both of Little Rock, enlivened the taking of depositions Tuesday before United States Commissioner Walker Smith in the voluntary bankruptcy petition of Morgan, financial operator in public utilities.

Reports of the encounter were denied by Morgan, who said the exchange was limited to "a few rough words," but Panich, a lawyer, gave a more detailed account.

"At the noon recess," Panich said, "I had forgotten all about the incident, and was standing at a window smoking a cigarette when some one called a warning."

"I turned in time to ward off a blow Morgan had aimed at me, and let him have one in return. Then some one pulled us apart, and that was all there was to it."

"I was sorry I lost my temper, and apologized to the commissioner for what I said to Morgan in the presence of the court."

Morgan's debt schedule filed in the bankruptcy proceedings in federal court in Little Rock last February included a claim for $200,000 by Hopkins Wade, his brother-in-law, of El Dorado, on an open account and another for $51,000 by the El Dorado Dry Goods company on an open account.

SO WHAT!

She: "I'm afraid to go into that dark room."

He: "But, dearist, I'm with you."

She: "That's the trouble."

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON
BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The period of taxation maneuvers, counter-maneuvers, trick plays, feints, and about-faces has added greatly to the ranks of those technically known as a bughouse.

The kindred friends of the administration wish you would blame it all on a notorious local heat.

Wisconsin is undertaking to add an element of misery to the lives of the foreign diplomats here and Congressman Steve Young of Ohio has a diabolical scheme aimed at the army officers.

Just a Bowl of Cherries

These two groups are the envy of us all. Having little to do beyond polo, golf, tennis, and an occasional few turns in a swivel chair, they're always invited to the best parties. They're the only fellows who have time to change their clothes.

Furthermore, their clothes never get mussed, so they seldom have to change—an obvious item of unfair competition.

Diplomats would be the especial victims of Congressman Cannon's bill, which provides heavy taxes on the wealth of citizens (male or female) who marry aliens. The tax would run from 10 per cent on all fortunes over $100,000 to 25 per cent on fortunes above $500,000.

All over the world, one hears, Washington is looked upon as a happy fishpond for young diplomats whose careers require a heiress in the family. The numerous heiresses who make their debuts here would think twice about that tax, Cannon believes, and the young diplomats would be so handicapped that even young congressmen might have a look-in.

Would This Be Tough?

Young's bill would make army and navy officers on duty in Washington wear uniforms all day long. They wear civilian clothes now and in that disguise, Young insists, flood the capital's cocktail lounges and country clubs.

Says Young: "My bill would reveal all the loafing among them. Civilians would be amazed and taxpayers outraged when they saw the hundreds of officers in uniform. They would insist that the officers be ordered into active service."

Hold That Line, Joe!

For years, Senate Majority Leader Joe Robinson has been privately assuring his friends that he would like to take a soak at Huey Long. This comes on Joe in great surges when Huey familiarly puts his arm around Joe on the Senate floor.

Robinson's candidacy for the U. S. Supreme Court requires a certain dignity and he thus far has held off. But the day may be approaching.

When Roosevelt's soak-the-rich tax message was being read, Huey eased over, put his arm around his ancient enemy's shoulder, and asked: "How do you like it, Joe?"

"Go away from me, or I'll block your eye!" growled Joe, who didn't like it at all.

But Huey just laughed and repeated the performance a bit later, with: "How's it goin' now, Joe?"

"Lay off me, or I'll block both your eyes!" hissed Robinson, gathering himself up as if about to spring.

Huey kept on laughing. But he didn't come back.

If the Bones Roll

If Roosevelt backed up the men who run the affairs of the District of Columbia, the capital would have legalized gambling.

Both District Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen and Police Chief Ernest W. Brown have agreed with Congressman William Schulte of Indiana, during an investigation of local lawlessness, that much of the crime problem here might be solved by legalization of gambling—which is now the chief business of Washington's underworld.

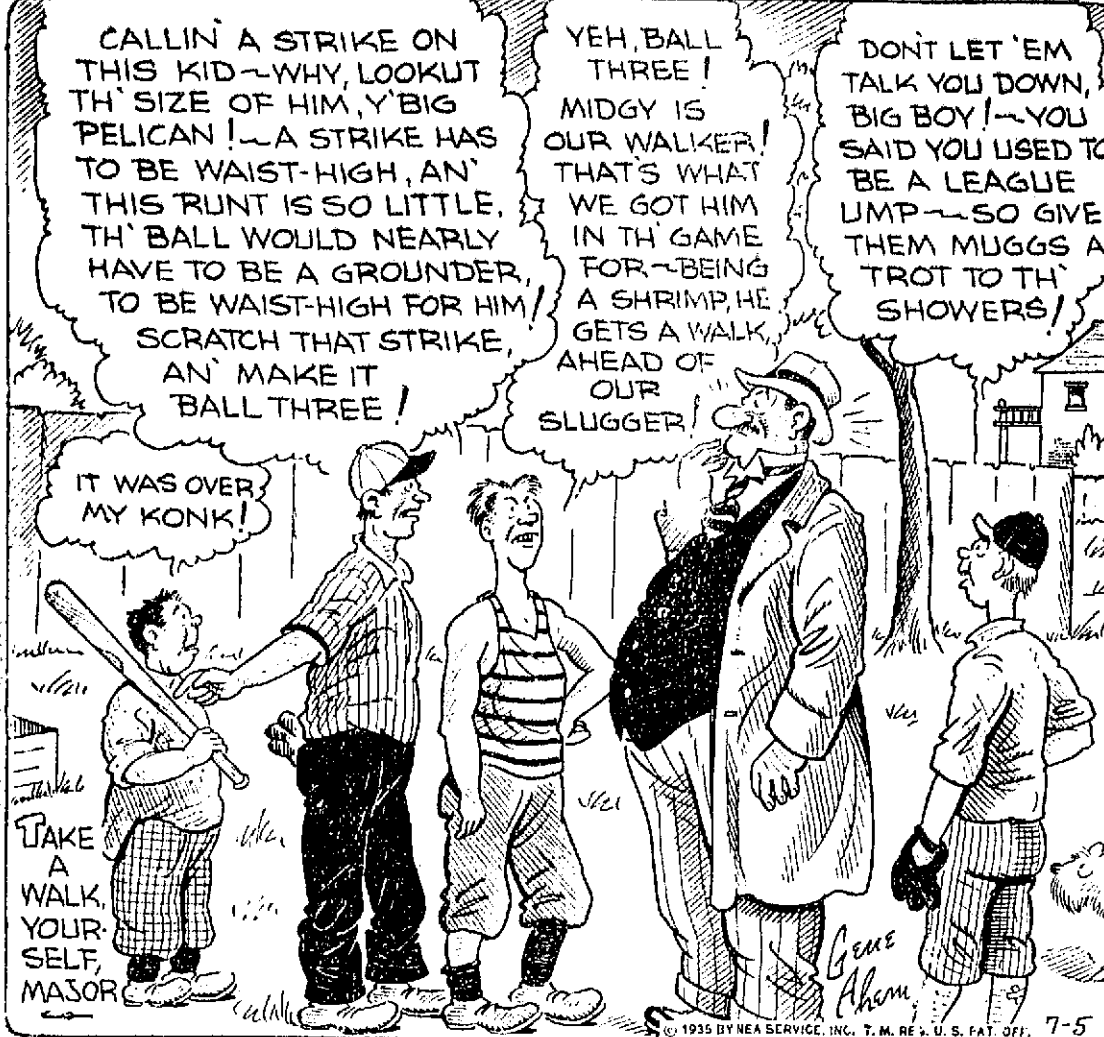

"Human nature being what it is," explained Hazen.

Gold Profit Used to Retire Bonds

Panama Canal Securities Paid Off to the Tune of 100 Millions

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Treasury Monday shifted $100,000,000 of gold profits to its "working balance" in preparation for redeeming a big block of gold government bonds and withdrawing all national bank notes from circulation.

Some $600,000,000 in the bonds and an approximately equivalent amount in bank notes are involved. Officials said they expected several months would pass before all the bonds had been presented for redemption and all the notes retired.

The bonds the Treasury is buying in are Panama Canal loan securities issued in 1916 and 1918. They bear what is known as the "circulating privilege." This means that national banks may deposit them with the Treasury, and 5 per cent in lawful money as a redemption fund, and issue bank notes to the extent of the face value of the bonds.

Aside from the canal loan bonds connected with the transaction which began Monday, other government securities to the extent of but $300,000,000 bear the "circulating privilege." Their life will end a month hence and consequently national bank notes will disappear completely.

Their elimination was part of a move to simplify the nation's monetary system, and will leave to all intents and purposes only two kinds of paper money in circulation—Federal Reserve notes and silver certificates issued by the Treasury. There is in addition a small amount outstanding in Federal Reserve bank notes.

Soft Coal Strike Ordered Put Off

Crisis in Pennsylvania-West Virginia Fields Postponed Month

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, called off the soft coal strike set for last Sunday night at the request of President Roosevelt.

Lewis agreed with Duncan Kennedy of Charleston, W. Va., spokesman for Appalachian producers, to continue the mines in operation at present wages and hours through July 31 if the operators accepted. Kennedy had no power to bind the operators, but he predicted they would accept it.

Secretary Perkins announced the new truce. She had been in a long conference with Lewis and Kennedy.

Key Brothers End New Record Flight

New Mark of 653 1/2 Hours Smashes All Existing Records

MERIDIAN, Miss.—(AP)—Fred and Al Key brought their plane, Ole Miss, to a safe landing at 6:06 p. m. (central standard time) Monday after spending almost a month in the skies and breaking all existing endurance flying records.

J. D. Sellers, Mississippi governor for the National Aeronautical association, directing official of the flight, immediately wired the association in Washington that a new record had been established.

"Al and Fred Key came down voluntarily at 6:06, establishing a new world endurance record of 653 hours, 34 minutes," he telegraphed. "Pilots and equipment in good condition."

Sellers, the first person to reach the ship, immediately removed the barograph, an instrument showing minimum and maximum altitude, and said it was in perfect condition.

The official world's record for sustained flying, set at 553 hours, 41 minutes and 30 seconds by John and Kenneth Hunter at Chicago in 1930, was topped last Thursday.

The unofficial record of 647 hours, 28 minutes and 30 seconds, set in 1930 by Daly Jackson and Forest O'Brien at St. Louis, was passed at one minute afternoon Monday.

Douglas Hotchkiss of Hot Springs, voted against entering into a contract with Heiden, at West Memphis last Saturday, and as a result of the current agitation, J. H. Graves of Judsonia and C. F. Armstrong of Fayetteville, have indicated they favor reconsideration.

Ed Gordon of Morrilton, Tom Compton of Prescott and Dr. P. H. Phillips of Ashdown, are other members of the commission. Should there be a tie vote on revoking the tentative permit, Ezekiah Highfill of Blytheville, chairman, who has announced his opposition to the Pulaski county, would cast the deciding vote.

The 'Stricken' Wheat Belt Comes 'Smilin' Through'

Drouth, dust storms, tornadoes and floods which scourged the great midwestern wheat belt are only memories, gladly forgotten, where the golden grain is waving again and the reapers are humming. These three smiling Wichita girls, helping with an early harvest on a Kansas farm, reflect the wheat farmer's revived hopes and traditional optimism.

30-Ton Plane for Army Is 'Largest'

Giant Bomber Even Bigger Than Trans-Pacific Commercial Ships

CHICAGO—The giant four-motored "mystery" bomber just completed for the Army Air Corps by the Boeing Aircraft factory at Seattle, Wash., was designed to carry six tons of bombs for 6,000 miles without refueling, and to have a top speed of 230 miles an hour. If its performance equals these specifications, it will be the deadliest air weapon in the world today.

This information and other facts about the big ship were obtained from the army's aeronautical engineering staff at the material Division, Wright Field, Dayton, O. The information is "unofficial," August 22 being fixed as the date upon which releases describing the airplane are to be given out. Being plant officials have refused to discuss the plane.

Apparently the bomber is an entirely new type of military airplane. Its weight, which will exceed 60,000 pounds when fully loaded, is far above that of any other ship now in service. No other military airplane now being flown by either the army or navy has more than three motors. Its extraordinary range is far beyond that of even the latest types of trans-oceanic commercial airplanes.

Reports received here say the ship has a wing span of 105 feet and the fuselage is approximately 75 feet long. The four engines are Pratt & Whitney twin Wasps, developing 800 horsepower each at maximum revolutions. Each engine is fixed in the leading edge of the wing, two on each side of the fuselage. The ship, army engineers say, is stressed to take 1,000 motors if they become available within the next two or three years.

Long Calls Sixth Special Session

Plans to Fortify Self With New Laws in War on New Orleans

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—A law-making campaign to "take over" the New Orleans city government by depriving its political foes, the city's officials, of practically all patronage and power, was started by Senator Huey P. Long Thursday night as his obedient legislature assembled in special session to do his bidding.

Long laid down for enactment bills to block what he fears will be the spending of federal relief funds by his political opponents, the bills will make political use of such funds a misdemeanor punishable by mandatory jail sentence.

As the session began, it was apparent that the senator's sixth special assembly of the Louisiana legislature in the past year and the third under martial law would be among the most punitive politically Long ever conceived.

The measures Long proposed place municipal employees under the state Civil Service Commission, composed of state officials who are members of Long's state organization. They also provide for collection of New Orleans city taxes by the state tax collector instead of by city employees as in the past.

At the April special session, Long placed the hiring of city police and firemen under the state Civil Service Commission. His latest bills deprive the city government of almost all hiring and firing power in its departments.

Long also introduced a bill to prohibit the firing of any deputy sheriff by any sheriff of any parish without the consent of the Civil Service Commission.

Additional legislation was introduced to deprive Eugene Stanley, Orleans parish district attorney, of the authority to name his assistants, and giving such authority to the attorney-general. Long and Stanley have clashed bitterly in the past.

A total of 31 bills were introduced, 26 of which bore Long's personal approval stamp.

Five of Long's bills were designed to embarrass President Roosevelt's national administration followers arrayed against him in Louisiana by threatening a maximum penalty of $200 and 90 days in jail for any one attempting to use political pressure in the dispensing of relief funds.

Other measures would permit the state Board of Liquidation to anticipate revenues of the New Orleans police and department boards to pay the city's police and firemen who have gone payless during a legal row between the state and city governments over city finances. The police and fire boards are state controlled.

Kansas Tells How He Cut Expenses

"Don't Spend Money That Is Not Available," Says Governor Landon

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon, who promised to balance the Kansas state budget and did, told the nation Tuesday how his campaign pledge was kept.

The businessman governor, mentioned as a possible Republican presidential candidate in 1936, laid down two general rules:

1. Apply business principles to government.
2. Don't spend money that is not available.

Kansas entered upon the new fiscal year Monday with the budget balanced and taxes cut. Since 1929, general property taxes have been decreased 32 per cent.

Landon made no direct criticism of federal expenditures and deficits, but pointed to increases since 1932 and declared every citizen "pays his share of this tax bill whether he realizes it or not."

He recalled that President Roosevelt, before his election, advocated a reduction in government spending.
